

Taiwan Society of Internal Medicine, Taipei, November 2013.

Uncertain Times: Changing Principle

Kiyoshi Kurokawa, MD, MACP, Academic Fellow of GRIPS

www.kiyoshikurokawa.com/en/, www.hgpi.org/en/, www.ghitfund.org/en/, www.grips.ac.jp/en/

We have seen a major change in the world affairs and healthcare paradigm. When Cold War ended in 1991, the world has begun connecting via introduction of world wide web, the era of Globalization. We have seen the major advances in science and technology during the 20th Century which led big changes the world and our life style. But, in the last 20 years or so, digital technologies have led further drastic changes in our life and there may be further major changes in the principles of the world we assumed so far as accepted based on the development of the last two centuries. Indeed, as globalization progresses the world has become more fragmented and fragile while healthcare and ageing population have become, among other major global agenda, major national as well as global political agenda. With many challenges in globalization, we will discuss changing principles of the world, healthcare, and a role of experts including a physician as a professional.